INTRODUCTION

This is the thirteenth volume of the Tudor series (Part IV) of the edition of the London customs accounts (TNA: PRO E122). It is comprised of one account: the tunnage and poundage particulars of account for 1519/20. Only the import section of the account has survived.

Everything the reader needs to understand about the English customs system – and the peculiarities of the customs administration in London – has been detailed in the introduction to the pilot edition.¹ However, there are some issues to be dealt with.

De eodem magistro

There are a number of entries in our account which take the form

De eodem magistro, alienigena, de navi X.Y., pro ...

This raises the question of who the skipper (magister) was: X.Y. or the skipper named in the heading. As I have already dealt with this issue in the introduction to volume IV 11 (p. xi-xii), a brief explanation will suffice here. The rule is that, whenever the scribe made an entry of this sort, he wanted to indicate that the skipper was also the freighter of the goods in question, i.e. that he was shipping merchandise in his own ship. This fact is of signal importance to readers wishing to analyze the accounts edited here. When interpreting them, it is vital to bear in mind how the customers' scribes are recording the information.

Amalgamated entries

On the cusp of the sixteenth century, as we have seen in the introduction to volumes IV 3 (p. viii-xiv) and IV 11 (p. xii), the London tunnage and poundage accounts abandoned the old tradition of grouping merchandise by date (all ships 'leaving' or 'entering' on the same day are recorded together) and then by ship (all merchants freighting a given ship are recorded together), clearly marking one ship off from the next with headings. Instead of that, the tunnage and poundage accounts minimized the number of headings and employed amalgamated entries, lumping the goods a given merchant imported or exported in a number of ships together in one entry.

Our tunnage and poundage account follows this procedure. Headings (e.g. ship 1, p. 2: De navi Jacobi Scott tercio die Octobris) are rare. There are only 172 of them in the entire account. Consequently, some of the 'ships' the particulars record can be very large indeed. Nominally, ship 167, skippered by John Holmes and 'entering' on 23 July, comprises 34 printed pages of entries (p. 248-82). These, of course, do not all relate to merchandise freighted in Holmes' ship. Indeed, the very first entry (p. 248) records merchandise which John Coplande loaded in two ships: Holmes' and Johannes Jacob's.

*De Johanne Coplande, indigena, [pro] 150 dimidiis balis gualdi; De nave
Johannis Jacob [pro] 150 dimidiis balis gualdi. [Precii] £150*

Amalgamated entries of this sort (one merchant, more than one ship, none of which was named in the heading) are common in our account, whereas the traditional form of recording merchandise is comparatively rare. Of the roughly 5200 entries in the account, only 1211 are in the traditional form (23%), and just over half of them (614) relate to wine.² This made good sense, because tunnage was calculated by the number of tuns of wine, not by the value of the cargo, and consequently such imports did not lend themselves to amalgamation.

Aside from that, the typical entry in our account is amalgamated. To be sure, the scribe did not go in for the riotous excesses we observed in the tunnage and poundage controlment roll for 1513/14 edited in volume IV 11 (E122/83/2 and E122/162/6), where entries of 15-20 lines for a single merchant were not uncommon, but he is anything but opposed in principle to lumping goods belonging to one merchant – but shipped in different bottoms – together in a single entry. Almost three quarters of all the entries in our account record merchandise a merchant loaded in a vessel not identical with that named in the heading (i.e. heading is for ship A; the entry is for merchant XY in ship B). Entries for one, two and three ships (merchant XY in ship B, in ship C, in ship D) are almost equally common. More than that is, by contrast, seldom. There are, to be sure, outliers: our account includes three entries recording a single merchant's cargoes in eight ships (Jn Hardy p. 120, John Hardy p. 156, Hy Lomnour p. 254), but orgies of amalgamation lumping a single merchant's goods imported in a large number of ships and yielding a large block of text (15-20 lines) no longer occur. In our account, no entry exceeds 10 lines of printed text.

Let it be briefly noted that there are no auditor's markups in the particulars of account to indicate that he had checked off the items he had already found. Nor is there any obvious pattern to the days on which cockets were notionally issued, that is to say in the dates of 'entry' recorded in the account's headings (graph). This, once again, casts doubt on the 'office hours' hypothesis (IV 11, p. xv).

² Wine imports are only amalgamated once. A single sub-entry records that Richard Hill imported 10 butts of wine in Levyn Hughson's ship and 3 tuns of wine in Johannes van Erop's (ship 146, p. 203).

Day of issue of cockets (imports) by the London tunnage and poundage customers 1519/20

Et aliis

Finally, I must, once again, sound a clarion warning against overenthusiastic interpretation of the account edited here. The scribe appended - disturbingly often - a little et aliis to the list of a merchant's specified imports. It is, of course, impossible to know what merchandise might be lurking behind this phrase. It is therefore impossible to specify just how much of a particular product might have been imported during the period covered by the account. All we can say is how much was recorded, leaving open the possibility that there may have been more.

Active and passive licencees

The tunnage and poundage particulars for 1519/20 include numerous references to royal licences which one merchant or another had utilized to import merchandise on favorable terms. In most cases, the licencee transferred his rights to some other merchant, but occasionally he made use of his licence himself. In order to distinguish between these two cases, I have employed the designations 'as active licencee' and 'as passive licencee' in the index of people and places. To illustrate, let's take two (of the many) instances involving the indigenous merchant John Easton.

When Easton made use of his licence himself (i.e. acting 'as active licencee'), the scribe recorded this in the following form (p. 55):

De Johanne Easton, indigena, per licenciam domini regis sibi factam, pro
[merchandise and price follow]

If, however, Easton transferred his rights under the licence to a third party (acting 'as passive licencee'), the scribe recorded this as follows (p. 58):

De Johanne Cotes, indigena, per licenciam domini regis Johanni Easton factam, pro [merchandise and price follow]

The customers' particulars of account were fiscal documents, forming an integral part of the procedure imposed on the customers when accounting for the crown's customs income before the Exchequer. As such, they were marked up by the auditor when he summed up the crown's income according to the various categories and tariffs. These marginated annotations form an integral part of the source and, in my view of it, deserve to be reproduced in full. I have done this in the following way. First of all, the auditor's summations of income at the end of each page or membrane (including the jottings reproducing the position of the counters on the counting table) have been reproduced as written in the account. Second, all other marginated notes (e.g. a cross or an asterisk indicating an error) are noted in the normal way in the critical apparatus. However, recording the eternally repetitive marginal notes on the tariff categories to which particular products belonged (panni ind', panni al', panni Hans', per breve etc.) call for a different solution, since including them in the critical apparatus would simply blimp it up to no useful purpose. Consequently, I have indicated them in the text by employing superscript letters in angle brackets (e.g. ^{}De Roberto Derlyngton) and resolving these in a block at the bottom of the page (Auditor's marginated notations L:  panni ind').

The problem of the hundredweight is exceedingly vexed. While it is well known that a hundredweight can correspond to 100 lb., 112 lb. or 120 lb. avoirdupois,³ there is no way to know which of these three values applies when a customer writes c lb. or fractions and multiples thereof. Just occasionally, when the particulars of account and the controlment roll have survived, some insight is possible, for instance if one of the two records a particular merchant's exports of pewter vessels as di' c lb. vasorum stanni and the other the same goods as lvj lb. vasorum stanni.⁴ But these cases are far too rare to inspire confident generalizing. Consequently, I have decided to leave the matter unsolved, marking the text in such a way that the reader can easily reconstruct the entry. The most common notation of weight – multiples of 'c' – has not been marked up. Thus iiij^c lb. is simply transcribed as 300 lb. If the thousand sign was used, the number is marked with a cross: thus, ij M[†] lb. is transcribed as 2000[†] lb. (but xx^c lb. as 2000 lb.) If the sign for one half is used, this is indicated by an asterisk: thus, di' c lb. is transcribed as 50* lb. (but l lb. as 50 lb.) And finally, if the sign for one quarter is used, this is indicated by a double cross: thus, c q' lb. is transcribed as 125[‡] lb.

Diplomatic Notes on the Form of the Edition

The transcriptions of Latin documents in this edition observe the conventions of the Monumenta Germaniae Historica. The source texts (and all variants) are reproduced in normal type, while editorial intrusions are printed without exception in italics (e.g. mardre L3, in error). Unambiguous abbreviations are expanded silently, without using square brackets or italics to indicate missing letters. u/v and i/j have been regularized silently to accord with pronunciation: thus vniuersalis in the source text is rendered universalis, while 'i' is transcribed if the letter is pronounced as a vowel (imperii), and 'j' if the letter is pronounced as a consonant, i.e. like the 'y' in 'you' (majestas), even if the source writes imperij and maiestas.

³ OED s.v. hundredweight.

⁴ Therefore, when transcribing entries regarding the export of pewter vessels, I have retained the hundredweight (e.g. pro 9 centenis vasorum stanni).

Personal names and place names are transcribed exactly as written and only regularized in the Index of People and Places.

Roman numerals are reproduced as Arabic numerals, except for the sovereign's ordinal (Edwardi ivth). Arabic numerals which occur in the source texts are indicated by bold type. ob' is given as $\frac{1}{2}d$, q' as $\frac{1}{4}d$ and ob' q' as $\frac{3}{4}d$.

Following the convention in German, I have used a full stop after a number to indicate the ordinal rather than the cardinal, if a number is not written out. Thus, 27. die Januarii (p. 147) is to be understood as vicesimo septimo die Januarii, rather than viginti septem die Januarii.

When transcribing the customs accounts, I have numbered the ships consecutively in italics in square brackets. The individual paragraphs of longer texts have also been numbered in the same way. The reason for this is that the web version of the accounts and accounting materials for the Lancastrian period has no pagination, since the amount of text displayed on the screen depends on the size of the monitor and its resolution. Consequently, cross references – whether within a single document, from one document to another or in the indices – to 'page thus-and-such' are meaningless, and some internal sub-division of the text which can be linked in is unavoidable. Since some scholars will want to use the printed version of the edition and others the web edition, it is necessary to provide a common basis. Thus, if one scholar refers to ship No. 24 in the digital version of a particular account, those using the printed version will be able to find the vessel in question.

All dates and cross references in the source texts have been resolved in italics in square brackets in the text of the edition, rather than in footnotes.

If both the particulars of account and the controlment roll survive, certain variants have been suppressed to avoid inflating the text-critical apparatus. Thus, neither the substitution of 'y' in one text for 'i' in the other (e.g. Willyamson, Williamson) nor middle English plural variants (-es, -is, -ys etc.) have been noted in the apparatus criticus. In general, I have limited the notation of textual variants to those cases in which the variant spelling of a word changes the pronunciation. Thus, the variant federbeds will be noted against fetherbeds, but not fedderbeds or federbeddes against federbeds.

Punctuation is artificial and ignores all medieval full stops, commas and so forth. Since Latin is a syntactic language (like German), the eminently useful MGH convention – namely to employ punctuation (according to the pre-reform German rules) to mark up the grammatical structure of the sentence – has been employed here. I have also broken up the stylistically elegant, but utterly incomprehensible run-on Latin sentences of the source texts into manageable units.

Since we are dealing with late medieval administrative Latin, there are some cases which call for local by-laws.

First of all, there are a number of middle English words embedded in the Latin texts which have to be assigned a gender, since they are often modified by an abbreviated adjective (e.g. pro 1 parv' fetherbed). Since the adjectives are written out in a number of instances (pro 1 parvo fetherbed), I have arbitrarily imposed a masculine grammatical gender on all middle English words rather than litter the edition with apostrophes.

Second, the sources themselves are in a muddle as to whether the words custuma and subsidiium are singular or plural, and usually avoid the problem by writing cust' and subs'. If a scribe does write out the one or the other word, it is almost inevitable that he will contradict himself, writing custuma in one line and custume a few lines later. This muddle is not merely the result of scribal carelessness or low standards of Latinity. In the fifteenth century, it was possible to differentiate between the collective noun (in the singular) denoting the charges to be paid and the individual sums (in the plural) which each merchant rendered. Even bearing this in mind, however, scribes are simply not consistent. Taking each individual text as a whole, I have done my best to reproduce what the scribe seemed to be thinking.

TUNNAGE AND POUNDAGE
PARTICULARS OF ACCOUNT (IMPORTS)
29 SEPT. 1519 – 29 SEPT. 1520

Particulars of account of William Tyler, kt., and Nicholas Waryng for the issues of tunnage and poundage in London during the period from 29 Sept. 1519 to 29 Sept. 1520

L1 TNA: PRO, E122/81/8. Original particulars of account bound in Exchequer style (Of the original 52 membranes, only 44 have survived, covering all of the imports but none of the exports, numbered contemporaneously in Roman numerals both at the bottom center of the recto side of the membrane and in the upper left-hand corner (hidden in the stitching); the auditor has entered a dot above the charge on each merchant's goods). Parchment. Unsealed. Some damage from damp, parchment badly worn in places.

The scribe consistently writes predicti in the phrase in nave predicta, a peculiarity which I have banned from critical apparatus to avoid swelling it up.

The last membrane bound into this account cannot be part of the London tunnage and poundage account for 11 Henry VIII, although it is numbered 45 (in Roman numerals at the bottom center of the recto side of the membrane) and is indubitably a tunnage and poundage account. However, the entries relate solely to the imports of the alien merchants John Cavalcanti (26 Nov. 10 Hen. VIII/1518 to 13 July 11 Hen. VIII/1519) and Anthony Bonvixi (17 Jan. 10 Hen. VIII/1519 to 14 July 11 Hen. VIII/1519), which predate the accounting period of E122/81/8 (29 Sept. 11 Hen. VIII/1519 to 29 Sept. 12 Hen. VIII/1520). Moreover, there is no membrane number in the upper left-hand corner of the membrane, which formally marks this membrane off from the others with which it is bound up.

L2 TNA: PRO, E122/81/6. Original pes compoti of the particulars of customs account (one membrane, unnumbered, manner of binding cannot be determined). Parchment. Unsealed.

INDEX OF PEOPLE AND PLACES

In accordance with current usage, the first names of Englishmen and -women have been standardized to their current forms. Thus Willelmus in the accounts is indexed as William and so forth. Italian and Spanish first names are given in the 'ab-lative' (Andrea, Beaceo, Roderigo rather than Andreas, Beaceus, Roderigus). The first names of other foreigners, who are largely Dutch and German, are normally indexed in something approaching their modern forms, e.g. Johannes, Jacob, Herman, Hugo rather than Hugh (which would indicate an Englishman). However, it is not possible to be entirely consistent. Take, as an example, Willelmus. Is one to index Hanseatic merchants as Wilhelm, but Dutch merchants and shippers as Willem or Wim and the Dinanters as Guillaume? To do so would simply be to introduce incredible confusion, entirely leaving aside the intractable problem of distinguishing between merchants of Dutch and Hanseatic origin. Therefore, in a number of cases I have indexed Dutch and German merchants' first names in the current English form: e.g. Paul, William, Laurence, Andrew, Henry.

Family names have been grouped, where possible, in the index, with cross references leading the reader from the variants to the main entry, which records all variant spellings in parentheses. However, given the inconsistency of the customers' scribes, I have found it impossible to resolve all doubts and have therefore tried to steer a middle course between the splitters and the lumpers. There are cases where there can be no doubt that divergent spellings denote one and the same merchant. On the other hand, there are cases where I am all but certain that variant spellings denote one person, yet am troubled by nagging doubts. In these cases I record the names separately and referred back and forth ('see also N.N.').

The order of the family names in the index is phonological, so that, for instance, 'y' is alphabetized as 'i'.

Place names are in small capitals.

On the distinction between passive and active licencees, see the introduction, p. ix.

INDEX OF SUBJECTS

The index is structured so as to serve as a glossary. Hence, the main entry is under the word as it appears in the sources (zinziber), and a cross-reference leads the reader from the modern English term to the main entry (ginger see zinziber). If a term is in Middle English, the plural form is also given (e.g. alle hafie, -s); if in Latin, the genitive (e.g. allec, -ecis). More than one reference per page is not noted.
